PAST HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDE:

"[The U.S.-Japan] relationship continues to evolve because of the work of the U.S.-Japan Council. Whether it's building the bonds between Japanese public and private sector, or creating educational programs, including helping develop policy-implementing Japanese cultural programs for Americans. Your work has been invaluable in bringing two friends and allies even closer together."

- Then-Vice President Joseph R. Biden, Jr., speaking at the inaugural 2010 USJC Annual Conference

During the 2020 Bilateral Boardroom, Governor of Tokyo Yuriko Koike sat down with Kathy Matsui, then-Vice Chair and Chief Japan Strategist at Goldman Sachs Japan and Chair of the USJC (Japan) Board of Councilors. She discussed Tokyo's response to the coronavirus pandemic, and the need to commit resources in order to enhance testing and treatment capabilities for citizens of Tokyo. She also highlighted Japan's need for accelerating its digital transformation and ongoing efforts to increase remote connectivity among corporate workers.

In 2020, USJC hosted an exclusive conversation with former U.S. Senator Chris Dodd, looking ahead to the November elections. Senator Dodd, who served 30 years in the Senate and was a part of Joe Biden's Vice Presidential Selection Committee, shared his insights into the future of the U.S.-Japan alliance, the increased polarization and partisanship in Congress, and the key goals of a possible Biden administration. Senator Dodd also emphasized the importance of a rejuvenated U.S. presence in world affairs and a focus on the strengthening of existing alliances, especially with Japan.
